Semper Solaris - Freedom to Run Your A/C

Semper Solaris has more than 63 collective years of experience in the building and solar industry. Co-owners John Almond and Kelly Shawhan founded Semper Solaris to make solar and roofing easy and accessible to homeowners. Kelly Shawhan has worked in rooftop solar since 1989, and Semper Solaris offers SunPower panels which are designed in the USA. SunPower's unique technology is built-to-last when conventional panels lose power with age. No other home solar technology converts more sunlight than SunPower, giving customers an incredible 70 percent more energy in the same space over 25 years, resulting in more savings over time. SunPower produces the best solar energy panels in the industry and recently awarded Semper Solaris the SunPower Residential National Dealer of the Year! The Semper

Solaris partners insist on the highest quality products at the best prices so you can lower your energy bill with the highest efficiency SunPower solar panels available.

"Solar is all about the freedom to afford to run your AC, and what better way to do that than with SunPower's world record-setting high-efficiency panels," said John Almond. "After all, they are superior, don't cost all that much more, and save you more money over time than conventional solar panels."

With San Diego electricity rates continuing to rise, "It's time to declare your independence!" says Kelly.

The Semper Solaris name is taken from the Marine Corps motto, Semper Paratus. And the military connection is personal. John Almond is a "Navy brat" whose father was a career officer and pilot who moved his family to San Diego and never left. John graduated from Coronado High School and the University of California San Diego, using his business talents to promote green energy.

Kelly Shawhan, the former Marine Corps captain, served in many posts around the world and taught at the Army Field Artillery School, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and is one of the few Marines to do so. He attended business school on a full military scholarship at the Miami University of Ohio, graduating cum laude before entering the construction trade.

At Semper Solaris many of their team members are veterans, and employee David Fox notes that the military values of the business "rubs off on everybody, former military or not." Semper Solaris trusts their team to get the job done, and to do it well, so that customers can rest easy. Go Solar American style with Semper Solaris! Semper Fi!
